Victorian Farmers Federation (VFF) has partnered with AgTech Angel Investor Network to drive innovation, foster AgTech startups, and support the commercialisation of cutting-edge agricultural technologies.

The partnership aims to bridge the gap between startups and established agricultural businesses that drive the commercialisation of AgTech innovations, creating valuable collaboration opportunities, and contributing to the growth and competitiveness of regional AgriBusiness across Victoria.

Furthermore, the collaboration is aiming to ensure that AgriBusiness remains at the forefront of innovation, enabling a sustainable and prosperous future for the agriculture industry.

While technology and innovation play a critical role in shaping the future of agriculture, VFF's partnership with the AgTech Angel Investor Network will work towards integrating mutual industry knowledge, expertise, and resources to provide unparalleled support to AgTech startups in Australia.

AgTech Angel Investor Network's Pitch to Paddock, will be held at the prestigious AgSmart Expo on 7th September in Bendigo. This event will serve as a platform for AgTech startups to showcase their groundbreaking innovations and gain exposure to potential investors, customers, and industry experts. It will be a unique opportunity for the VFF members to witness firsthand the transformative potential of AgTech solutions in addressing the challenges faced by the agriculture sector.

AgTech Angel Investor Network conference is scheduled for 24 and 25 July in Melbourne.
