

Queensland, Victoria and Tasmania gain new export approvals in Indonesia trade expansion

07 May 2026 | News

Geographically diversified production base strengthens Australia's ability to scale halal meat exports

Geographically diversified production base strengthens Australia's ability to scale halal meat exports

The Australian Government has announced the approval of five additional export meat establishments for shipments to Indonesia, marking a significant expansion of market access for the country's red meat sector. One of the newly approved facilities has also been authorised to export sheep and goat meat, further broadening the scope of Australia's halal protein offerings in a key Southeast Asian market.

Indonesia remains a strategically important destination for Australian halal red meat, with beef and veal ranking as Australia's third-largest agricultural export commodity to the country in 2025, valued at approximately $581 million. This figure has risen by 49 percent since 2022, reflecting sustained demand growth and strengthening bilateral trade relations under the current Australian administration.

Strengthening Halal Supply Chains Through Regulatory Alignment and Industry Collaboration

The latest approvals follow extensive engagement between the Australian Government, domestic industry stakeholders, and Indonesian regulatory authorities, underscoring a coordinated approach to expanding agricultural trade access. The newly listed establishments are located across Queensland, Victoria, and Tasmania, reflecting the geographically distributed strength of Australia's red meat production base.

According to government statements, the approvals will enable increased export volumes of high-quality halal-certified meat products into Indonesia, while simultaneously reinforcing consumer confidence in Australia's biosecurity and halal compliance systems.

Second Successful Indonesian Audit Cycle in Two Years Signals Deepening Trade Confidence

This development represents the second positive audit outcome in two years, with a total of seven Australian export meat establishments approved since November 2024. The repeated approvals are widely interpreted as a signal of Indonesia's growing confidence in Australia's regulatory framework for halal meat production and export integrity.

Trade Diversification Strategy Delivers Broader Market Access for Australian Agriculture

Officials have emphasised that Australia's agricultural export base is now more diversified than at any point in its history, providing farmers and producers with expanded access to high-growth international markets. The continued opening of Indonesian market channels is expected to enhance value creation across the supply chain, from livestock producers to processors and exporters.

Government Frames Expansion as Structural Win for Red Meat Sector Growth

The Australian Government has positioned the approvals as part of a broader strategy to support agricultural export expansion and global competitiveness. Increased access to Indonesia is expected to deliver tangible commercial benefits, while also reinforcing Australia's reputation as a reliable supplier of safe, high-quality halal red meat in global markets.